

PORTUGAL'S SLAIN KING DIED POOR; LEFT ONLY $30,000

Insurance Policies His Only Assets Held by Banks for Loans Advanced.

LISBON, Feb. 7.—King Carlos died a poor man. His entire fortune consisted of insurance policies held by the Bank of Portugal as security for advances made. After these repayments have been made, it is declared that there will not remain more than $30,000 to be distributed to the heirs of the King.

Senhor Machado, the leader of the Republican party, in an interview to-day denied indignantly that there was any connection between his party and the assassinations, which the party deeply regretted. Machado said he was certain the monarchial regime in Portugal was doomed and that it would die out peacefully within a few years. There would, however, be no violence. In this age bullets are mightier than bullets, he added.

It is announced to-day that Capt. Azevedo Coutinho has been appointed Civil Governor of Lisbon. This is the first time in eighteen years that a military officer has been named to fill this post. MADRID, Feb. 7.—Ex-Premier Franco and the members of his party, who left here last evening at five minutes past 8 on the "South Express," bought tickets only to the frontier. Where they are bound is not known. Some say their destination is Paris, where this train is due to-night, but in other quarters it is declared that the eventual destination of Senhor Franco is Germany, where he intends placing his son in a university. Franco is accompanied by his wife and son and one of his intimate friends, Senator Novas.

The former premier displayed great nervousness at the railroad station. He arrived there accompanied by several policemen and entered by a side door. While paying for the tickets for his party his hands trembled so that the money fell from them to the floor. These arrangements finally completed, the travelers quickly entered a sleeping car which had been switched to a side track and within later attached to the regular Paris train. Policemen surrounded the car to keep back the curious crowd. There was no hostile demonstration. The Spanish Government detailed a detective to accompany Franco to the frontier.

Senhor Franco was approached for an interview. He explained that under the circumstances he preferred to say nothing, but he authorized a member of his party to converse with a representative of the Associated Press and may for him that he suffered no remorse for his conduct as a statesman. On the contrary, he was firmly convinced that the policy he had pursued was the wisest one possible.

Portugal was in a state of demoralization," said the spokesman for Senhor Franco, "and every excess of liberty to-day, while having an apparent effect of tranquillity, will in reality add to the violent passions of the people which later will explode with greater violence. The assassin's policy was to bring about the murders of the King and the Crown Prince resulted from an elaborate political plot; they were the acts of madmen instigated by a passion for the money they received for their crime. The best proof of this is found in the fact that after the assassinations, when the monarchy was passing through its critical hours and the nation was without a Government, no serious attempt was made to proclaim a republic.

"Senhor Franco is now leaving Portugal, but he does not take any money because he is trying to forget his act and policies but because he desires to avoid the occasion for further political discussion, which would only inflame the passions of the people."

In conclusion, the spokesman for the ex-Premier said he thought it probable that Senhor Franco eventually would go to Switzerland.

DOUBLE DUES IN ALIMONY CLUB FOR COL. PERSCH.
Pays $20 a Week to Former Wife and Must Give Present Spouse the Same Amount.

It is difficult to determine from the affidavits presented Col. John P. Persch's ability to comply with an order awarding alimony," said Justice Leventritt in the Supreme Court today, after reading the affidavit of Mrs. E. Gretchen Persch, in which the Colonel's income as a promoter is put at $4,000 a year, while the Colonel's affidavit declares he isn't earning a dollar, is paying $20 weekly alimony to Flora Loomis Persch, who divorced him, and owes $20,000.

Col. Persch also declares that E. Gretchen Persch, who says she is penniless, carried away $50,000 worth of furniture, securities and diamonds jewelry when she "deserted" him last June. He found her with Frederick R. Rood in the latter's sumptuously appointed bachelor apartments.

She asked for $20 a week and $2,000 alimony fee. Justice Leventritt allows her $20 a week and $150 for her lawyer.

Col. Persch is still placed in the embarrassing situation of supporting two wives at $20 a week each, and thinks his dues in the Alimony Club are excessive for a member who has an income of nothing at all.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS ALL OVER THE WORLD

Short Stories of Unusual Happenings and Singular Experiences Picked Out of the Chronicles of the Day.

"He sent me telephatic messages until I had to kill him," explained Ed Powers, of Columbus, Ga., last night, after he had shot to death Dr. L. F. Myers, a prominent osteopath of that city. Powers said the doctor had taunted him and worried him by telephatic until he could stand it no longer.

LONELY COLLEGE GIRL A SWINDLER.
Loneliness was given by Miss Estelle Taylor, of Chicago, a university and law school graduate, as her reason for passing a number of worthless checks. She was held for the Grand Jury. "The utter lack of incentive in my life, and the awful loneliness," she said, "depressed me, made me dishonest."

"One day I saw a check lying around, and I had no notion to pass it came to me. I did it. The excitement alleviated my loneliness and I passed others."

"PAUPER'S" WEALTH REVEALED BY BATH.
Attendees at the City Almshouse at Newark last evening found $1,190 sewed in the dress of Annie Martin, an aged woman admitted as a pauper. When she arrived at the almshouse she was compelled to take a bath. It was while she was derobing the money was found. She must now pay $250 a week for her keep. Her money was taken from her, and she will have only what the authorities give her to spend.
